CULTURE OF ROSES

The growing of Roses in our area is comparatively simple. Rose bushes may be set out at any time during the winter or early spring. December, January and February are the best months for planting but bushes may also be successfully set out in March or April. If it is later than this, Malmo Roses are available, growing in containers in Rose soil, for all Summer planting. When planting, spread out the roots over a cone of soil with the bud or basal branching point barely under the surface and firm in by tamping. The proper root requirements are a rich garden soil, preferably worked two feet deep, rotted cow manure or Malmo Organic Fertilizer or both. The control of pests by spraying or dusting together with proper pruning in early spring are the other principal requirements for healthy and profusely blooming roses.

Our list includes the best of the new varieties as well as the older favorites. We believe our stock to be the most complete line of heavy grade, number one quality roses available in the Northwest.

Our indoor ROSE ROOM features color plates of roses to help in your selection.

See Hampton Court Palace Gardens, an exact replica of the beautiful gardens originally built in London by King Henry VIII in 1527, reproduced by Clark Malmo in Seattle for garden lovers.

MALMO CLIMBING ROSES

FOR HIGH COLOR

CLIMBING ROSES are perfectly suited to the porch, garden wall, the fence, or as a specimen on a trellis, on garden pillars, against the summer house or other building.

To prune climbing roses: Climbers when planted should have all stems removed at the ground except the 2 or 3 strongest. These should not be cut back, except the twigs, as climbers bloom only on last year's growth.

Pruning climbers in subsequent years should be done by leaving only the strongest canes of the current year's growth, removing at the ground the two-year canes that have bloomed.
